For most employees, many of these matters are determined through the collective bargaining process managed by CalHR. CalHR also administers the state employees' 401(k) and 457 programs.

16.		Since 1982, rank-and-file civil service employees in California State government have been covered by collective bargaining. Collective bargaining is a process for negotiating wages, hours, terms, and/or conditions of employment. The collective bargaining process is governed by the Ralph C. Dills Act (Government Code Sections 3512 through 3524). The Public Employment Relations Board administers and enforces the Dills Act. The State's rank-and-file employees are divided into 21 bargaining units and represent more than 200,000 civil service employees. Each bargaining unit is represented by a union; in some cases the same union represents multiple bargaining units. The goal of negotiations between CalHR and each bargaining unit is to reach agreement on a contract covering a specified time period. The contract, also called a memorandum of understanding, or MOU, spells out the terms and conditions of employment for that particular unit, including any pay or benefit increases.
